

Well, it happened. The Dems have managed to lose their opportunity to take real action against the woes that beset us. The Republicans will block financial reform, funding green industry, and try to kill health care. I hope there's still a chance for health care reform. Otherwise, I'm not sure what I'm going to do.

Anybody out there with a job and health insurance want to marry me? Joking of course, but only a little.