

Finally completed the spec TV pilot based on the film THE OBJECTIVE. Finished it yesterday. Ian took a look, and has some notes for me. I make those, and send it off to the producer.

Who knows, maybe somebody will want to move forward with this. For myself I went back to work on the urban fantasy and finished another chapter today.

I'm going to read on a friend's book for awhile, then work a bit on the third EDGE book, and then play some Dragon Age. Not a bad day.

The vet/chiropractor wanted Vento to have 48 hours off before he worked again so I also got a day off. Oh, and I found the site that sells the giant horse balls for any other horse people who might be interested.